Photo of the original Weathervane Take-Out, taken in 1970. Today, Weathervane Seafood Restaurants are now conveniently located throughout New England. For a list of locations or more information, please visit www.weathervaneseafoods.com

In 1969, Ray and Bea Gagner opened a simple take-out stand in the small town of Kittery, Maine. It was just a summer place that folks traveled to for fresh seafood, tasty chowders, lobsters and other yummy treats from their old family recipes. Bea greeted all with a cheerful hello and a genuine smile. Though times have changed, the tradition carries on.

Today, the Gagner family invites you to visit any of the Weathervane Seafood Restaurants located throughout New England. So come on in, sit back, relax and enjoy the food as it always has been—freshly prepared and served simply—with a genuine smile.
